

HIGH SCHOOL TO BE DEDICATED AT EXERCISES FRIDAY

New $100,000 Building Will Be Formally Turned Over To Citizens By I. L. Taylor.

Gettysburg's new $100,000 high school, being used for the first time this fall, will be formally dedicated next Friday evening, November 12, at 7:30 o'clock.

The dedicatory service will be short and unpretentious, and members of the school board are urging all patrons in Gettysburg to attend. Many pupils from nearby townships and communities attend high school here because of the better facilities and more complete courses offered, and to the parents of these children the board extends a special invitation to attend.

The address of the evening will be given by Dr. Harvey D. Hoover, member of the faculty of the Lutheran Theological Seminary, and a native of Adams county.

I. L. Taylor, treasurer of the local school board, will tell how the building was financed, and formally turn it over to the community and vicinity on behalf of the board.

One of Best in State Musical numbers will be furnished by the girls' glee club, under the direction of Miss Glee Baker, supervisor of music, and selections by the high school orchestra.

Preceding the dedication exercises, the Parent-Teachers' Association will hold a short business meeting, starting at 7 o'clock.

The local high school is one of the most modern and best equipped in this part of Pennsylvania, and the state department of public instruction has sent numerous school boards here to inspect it, preparatory to building new buildings in their home communities.

The latest school board to visit the new building was that from Tamaqua, near Pottsville, which inspected the structure this morning. The board of seven members was accompanied by Mr. Horner, the principal, and J. F. Derr, superintendent of schools. The board had seen a picture of the new building in a Philadelphia newspaper, and were so much impressed that they came here to inspect the place. Each of the visitors expressed amazement with the modern and complete appliances and all were loud in their praises.

R. O. T. C. UNIT IS INSPECTED

Lieutenant Colonel Deems Pleased With Unit in College; Will Return Later.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps Unit of Gettysburg College will get a somewhat higher rating since the inspection by Lieutenant Colonel Clarence Deems, commander of the R. O. T. C. division of the Third Corps Area with headquarters at Baltimore, on Thursday. Lieutenant Colonel Deems expressed satisfaction at the manner in which the records were kept and also the manner of storing the equipment. The usual weekly drill was conducted but no formal review was staged.

Capt. William S. Morris who is commander of the local unit stated today that Colonel Deems will return here several more times this year for inspections and drills and that a formal review will be held later.

Colonel Deems came here from Western Maryland College accompanied by Captain Wooly, who is commander of the unit there, and he returned to that place Thursday after the inspection accompanied by Captain Morris.

TO HOLD BANQUET

Alumni of Susquehanna University Selinsgrove, in Adams and York counties will attend a dinner meeting at the Richard McAllister Hotel, Hanover, this evening at 7 o'clock as part of a drive of graduates of that college to raise $125,000 for the erection of an Alumni Memorial Library at the institution.

PLAN RED CROSS DRIVE FOR FUNDS

Plans for the annual Red Cross roll call in Adams county were discussed and formulated at a meeting of the executive committee of the Adams County Red Cross at headquarters in the court house this afternoon.

Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars is in charge of the roll call this year for which elaborate plans are being made.

NAME OFFICERS OF LEAGUE FOR COMING YEAR

Mrs. J. I. Burgoon, Of Gettysburg, Is Re-elected Treasurer; Sessions Concluded.

Mrs. S. T. Nicholas, of Washington, D. C., was today elected president of the Woman's General League of Gettysburg College, succeeding Mrs. J. Edward Byers, of Baltimore, who served three years in that capacity.

Other officers chosen were: Mrs. Henry Anstadt, Chambersburg, first vice president; Mrs. A. D. Spangler, second vice president; Mrs. J. I. Burgoon, treasurer, and Mrs. A. B. VanOrmer, secretary.

The fifteenth annual convention of the league was concluded with a luncheon at the Hotel Gettysburg this afternoon, at which Mrs. Mary E. Stuckenburgh, founder of the organization was guest of honor. Several hundred women attended the luncheon.

The final business session was opened at 9 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Frederick G. Gotwald, York; Mrs. J. J. Simonton, Altoona; Mrs. Robert D. Clare, Baltimore; William W. Wood, secretary of the College Y. M. C. A., and Roy L. Sloop, president of the Y., were among those who participated.

Committee reports, election and installation of new officers and announcements consumed the time of the closing business session.

The Thursday evening meeting was one of the high spots of the convention. The meeting was opened with an invocation by Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg College, after which the College Quartet sang several selections. "Christian Service" was the subject of an interesting address by Mrs. E. C. Cronk, of Philadelphia. A poem by Mrs. Helen Elizabeth Byers Elbert, of Baltimore, was well-received.

After the session, a reception was held at the College Y.

Canvass For Funds For District Nurse

The drive for funds for the District Nurse Association, which started this week, is going along rapidly and a number of subscriptions have been received. The envelopes for the members of the association have been sent out and other donations are being received by the officers.

The number of visits made by the district nurse, Mrs. Catherine Fogle, during the year ending October 1, was 1283 instead of 128 as erroneously reported in The Times on Thursday.

BUSINESS GIRLS TO HOLD DINNER

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Gettysburg will have its monthly club supper at the Y. W. C. A. building Armistice Day at 6:00 p. m. A committee is planning special features appropriate to the celebration of Armistice Day.

The supper will be prepared at the building. In order that the committee may know how many will be present they ask that all business women will sign on the list on the bulletin board in the building or call by phone before Tuesday noon, November 9.

GOOSE HANGS HIGH HAS GOOD CAST

Few Seats Reserved For Production to Be Staged For Benefit of the Firemen.

Few reserved seats were marked off Thursday, when the chart for "The Goose Hangs High" was opened at the People's Drug Store, and members of the Gettysburg Fire Department, under whose auspices and for whose benefit the play will be staged next Wednesday evening in the Majestic theatre, today urged better public support.

The play, a story of modern home life, is being given by amateur performers for the first time this year, and Gettysburg theatre-goers are fortunate in being able to see the show with the best local talent available.

The show is the first to be given by the newly-organized Gettysburg Dramatic Club, which promises to be the foundation of a Little Theatre group here, and each of the players in "The Goose Hangs High" has had previous stage experience.

Dr. Richard A. Arms, director of Owl and Nightingale dramatic club shows at Gettysburg College for several years, is in charge of rehearsals for "The Goose Hangs High," with Fred G. Pfeffer, Baltimore street, as his assistant. Mr. Pfeffer also plays one of the leading roles in the performance.

The cast and characters they will portray were announced today as follows:

Bernard Ingals, William G. Weaver; Eunice Ingals, Miss Marie Codori; Noel Derby, John Ostrom; Julia Murdoch, Miss Mary Ramer; Mrs. Bradley, Miss Lily Dougherty; Hugh Ingals, Winbert B. Neely; Ronald Murdoch, Marsby Little; Lois Ingals, Mrs. H. P. Belknap; Bradley Ingals, Fred Pfeffer; Dagmar Carroll, Miss Ellen Tipton; Leo Day, Oliver Heil; Rhoda, Miss Melva Heiges, and Elliott Kimberley, E. G. Heissenbuttel.

Mrs. Hoffman Is Buried Thursday

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ann Hoffman, 87, widow of Daniel Hoffman, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. B. Hartman, West Middle street, Monday morning, were held Thursday afternoon at the Hartman home, the Rev. George B. Ely, of Arendtsville, assisted by the Rev. D. T. Koser, officiating. Interment was made in Fairview cemetery, Arendtsville.

The pallbearers were four nephews and two grandsons of Mrs. Hoffman, Daniel, Elias, James, George, Robert and Roy Hoffman.

SLIGHT DAMAGE IS DONE BY FIRE

Members of the Gettysburg fire department this morning extinguished a chimney fire at the home of Lewis Menchey, on the Mill road, without his being aware that there was a fire at his place. The call for the local company was put in at 11:30 o'clock and the service truck responded.

The paper was burned off the wall of one room through which the overheated pipe passed but the blaze was extinguished before any other damage was done.

Gettysburg and Harrisburg Transportation company will run a special bus to Harrisburg, Saturday, for the Dickinson game, $2.00 a round trip. Leaving Gettysburg at ten o'clock, returning leave Harrisburg at seven-thirty.

GETTYSBURG'S "G" DEFACES DICKINSON COLLEGE CAMPUS

Revenge is sweet. It took two years, but the sparks of vengeance thrived and when the Dickinson students went to their classes Thursday morning they were met with large and glowing "G" markings, enhancing the walks, stone walls, fraternity houses, student's automobiles and college buildings, and the finger of suspicion was immediately pointed to Gettysburg.

Evidently remembering the sight which met the eyes of the student body two years ago on the eve of the Dickinson Gettysburg game, which the former college won, 20 to 12, several lettering artists visited the fair campus of the rival college either late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning and with white lead, black paint and tar proceeded to decorate the "noble halls of Dickinson" with the symbolic letter "G". According to reports from Carlisle no one saw the brush wielders and no clue has been found as to their identity but the evidence of their presence was not lacking.

The members of the faculty of Dickinson college were perturbed by the affair and notified the Carlisle police department that a reward would be offered for the apprehension of the perpetrators but so far no arrests have been made.

Two years ago when the large "D" markings were found on the gateway and other buildings about the local campus, the student council of Dickinson College sent a letter of apology to the local college attributing the act to some member of the freshman class of that institution and the incident was believed closed.

What action will be taken here about the matter was not disclosed entirely but it is said that an investigation will be made in an effort to determine the guilty parties.

With the annual game less than 24 hours off, the attention of the student body here has been turned to the battle royal, which will be played at the island gridiron at Harrisburg. Interest in this game so far as the students and alumni are concerned is as great if not greater than any other game of the year and a large representation from Gettysburg is expected to be on hand.

While Gettysburg has somewhat of an edge on the battlers for the Red and White, the team is not overconfident as to the outcome for a Dickinson-Gettysburg game is a Dickinson-Gettysburg game and anything is liable to happen.

The last victory which the Methodists chalked up was two years ago and they are out for blood this year. Gettysburg has been having a far better season than has their ancient rival but "past performances" go for naught when the warriors of these two colleges face each other across the barred field.

Coach "Bill" Wood refused to claim the victory, which is right also, but with a majority of the first string men receiving a rest last week-end when the substitutes were sent in against Ursinus, it is expected that the Orange and Blue will have a little easier sailing than Dickinson will have, since the latter have been forced to use their first string men in all of their games and consequently, according to the dope emanating from that institution, several of their best men are on the injured list.

MRS. SARAH PLANK IS BURIED TODAY

Last rites were held for Mrs. Sarah A. C. Plank, 85, who served as a nurse during the Battle of Gettysburg, and who died at her home on Carlisle street, Wednesday morning, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of the St. James Lutheran church, officiating. Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

The pallbearers were, William F. Redding, William A. Bigham, Charles Toot, Edward M. Bender, G. R. Thompson and Lewis Storm.

Services Are Held For Charles Dome

Funeral services for Charles E. Dome, who died at his home at Arendtsville, Sunday afternoon from the effects of a stroke, were held Thursday afternoon, the Rev. Murray Ness, of Arendtsville, officiating, assisted by the Rev. C. M. Ankerbrand, of Biglerville. Interment was made in Greenmount cemetery, that place.

The pallbearers were: Andrew Kane, Luther Rice, George Boyer and Carey Criswell.

Fresh fish, clams and oysters at Minter's Store.

LOCAL WOMEN AT CLUB MEETING

Delegation From Local Organizations Attend Sessions of Federation at Hanover.

The annual meeting of the Cumberland Valley League of Federated Clubs was held Thursday at the Civic League home in Hanover, with Mrs. Ray Sherwood, of York, presiding.

Mrs. Philip N. Forney, president of the Hanover Civic League, gave the address of welcome; Miss Mary Zeller, of Lock Haven, vice president of the central district, spoke, and Mrs. John B. Hamme, of York, president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, gave an address on "American Citizenship," during the morning session.

Addresses of the afternoon were made by Miss Anna A. MacDonald, acting director of the State Library, and by Dr. Thomas L. Cline, of Gettysburg College, who spoke on "What Is Happening In Our College Today."

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. George A. Stearns, Camp Hill; vice president, Mrs. Chrowsaite, Hanover; secretary, Mrs. William Douglass, Chambersburg; treasurer, Mrs. B. O. McIntyre, Carlisle. The meeting in 1927 will be held in Camp Hill.

Delegates were present from clubs in Camp Hill, Carlisle, Chambersburg, Harrisburg, Hummelstown, Mercersburg, Mechanicsburg, Middletown, Newville, Shippensburg, Steelton, York, Gettysburg and Biglerville.

Among the local people who attended were Mrs. Robert Elden, Aspers; Mrs. Edwin C. Tyson, Mrs. Chester J. Tyson; Mrs. Robert Tyson, Flora Dale; Mrs. Arthur E. Rice and Mrs. S. Gray Bigham, of Biglerville; Mrs. Frank R. Peckman, Mrs. S. F. Snyder, Mrs. J. Donald Swope, Mrs. Edmund W. Thomas, Mrs. Marie A. Ziegler and Mrs. Ernest Ziegler.

STUDENTS WILL PARADE AT YORK

Since no parade has been planned for Gettysburg in celebration of Armistice Day this year, the members of the R. O. T. C. Unit of Gettysburg College, numbering about 135, under the command of Capt. William S. Morris, will take part in the parade which will be held at York on Thursday. They will be accompanied by the college band.

The unit will parade as the guests of the American Legion post of that city.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Cigar between lips, wreathed in smiles; feet on top of the desk, head thrown back and thumbs thrust into armpits of his vest. That is the picture of smiling satisfaction that was R. E. Underwood, Adams county farm agent, this morning, when he announced "to the world" that a daughter was born to Mrs. Underwood at the Warner Hospital. Both mother and daughter are reported to be doing nicely.

GUESTS OF GOVERNOR

Mr. and Mrs. Hiliary Kennedy, of York Springs, were among the guests at another of the series of dinners given by Governor and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot at the executive mansion, Harrisburg. Mrs. Kennedy is president of the Adams County Republican Women's Club and was active in Mr. Pinchot's unsuccessful campaign for the Republican nomination as United States Senator in the spring primary.

OFFICIAL COUNT GIVES WILSON 100 VOTES IN COUNTY

Glatfelter Also Gets 100 More, But Standing Remains Same As On First Returns.

The official count of the ballots cast in Tuesday's general election, completed in record time, Thursday afternoon, before Judge D. P. McPherson, extended the pluralities of S. F. Glatfelter, defeated Democratic candidate for congress, and William B. Wilson, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, by more than 100 votes, but only slightly affected the unofficial totals of the other candidates.

In the unofficial count, Glatfelter, who was defeated by Congressman Franklin Menges, Republican, by reason of the large vote polled for the incumbent in York county, was victorious in this county by 224 votes, but the official count extended this lead to 334, the total vote being, Glatfelter, 4132; Menges, 3798.

Wilson's unofficial majority over Congressman William S. Vare, senator-elect, was 2410 votes in Adams county, but the official tabulation revealed that the difference was 2539, the actual number of votes cast for the two candidates being Wilson, 5180; Vare, 2641.

But the majority given Wilson in the 55 counties of Pennsylvania which he carried as compared with the 12 carried by Congressman Vare was wiped out and a majority established for the Republican nominee by his large vote in Philadelphia.

Arthur H. James, Republican, lieutenant governor-elect, and James F. Woodward, Republican, elected secretary of internal affairs, did not run along with Governor-elect Fisher in the voting in this county although both received pluralities here. The first figures on these contests were those of the official county. They follow:

James, Republican, 3974; W. C. Hackett, Democrat, 3620; Woodward, Republican, 4053; John Murphy, Democrat, 3537.

The official count for Edward L. Weikert, Jr., elected to the state legislature on the Democratic ticket, was 4131, as compared with 3755 for G. R. Thompson, his Republican opponent, the majority being 376. Harry C. Stock, Republican, running as a Prohibition nominee, polled 251 votes.

Fisher Vote Is Big

The official gubernatorial vote follows:

John S. Fisher, Republican, 4628; Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, Democrat, 3303.

Assisting Judge D. P. McPherson with the official count, which was concluded in less than two hours, were C. B. Yohe, prothonotary; R. E. Dearnoff, clerk to the county commissioners, and C. E. Tawney, a former clerk to the commissioners. The official count will now be certified to the secretary of the commonwealth by Prothonotary Yohe.

MRS. SANDERS WAS LUNCH HOSTESS

Mrs. Charles F. Sanders, Broadway, entertained at luncheon at the Blue Parrot tea room Wednesday, the guests including the members of the executive committee of the General Woman's League of Gettysburg College.

The officers and directors of the General League attending were as follows: President, Mrs. J. Edward Byer, Baltimore; vice president, Mrs. Henry Anstadt, Chambersburg; statistical secretary, Mrs. L. E. Kinch, Pittsburgh; recording secretary, Mrs. A. B. Van Ormer, Huntingdon; treasurer, Mrs. Charles P. Anstadt, York; directors, Mrs. Henry Snyder, Johnstown; Mrs. Albert Spangler, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. William Nicklas and Mrs. Heilman, Shippensburg; Mrs. Fackler, Harrisburg; Mrs. Geiger, Philadelphia; Miss Grace Gramley, Altoona; Mrs. Harry Schroeder, York; Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson and Mrs. J. I. Burgoon and Mrs. Sanders.

START FIGHT TO UNSEAT VARE

Senator Norris Declares Senator-Elect Was Repudiated by "Patriotic People."

(By Associated Press.) Washington, Nov. 5.—The drive against William S. Vare, Republican, as the junior senator of Pennsylvania in the 70th Congress has opened.

Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, who spoke in Pennsylvania on behalf of William B. Wilson, the Democratic senatorial candidate, because of alleged excessive campaign expenditures by the Republicans, declared here that Senator Vare, although technically elected had been repudiated by the "honest patriotic people" of the state and that the Philadelphia machine had functioned as usual, the result in some precincts having been announced before any votes were cast.

Meanwhile the committee of 70, an unofficial body in Philadelphia, was preparing to make an investigation in a number of Philadelphia precincts where Wilson was not credited with a single vote.

Vare, Senator Norris said, "ran several hundred thousand votes behind the Republican ticket and outside the city of Philadelphia he was defeated by 50,000 majority."

EX-PRIEST WILL DIE FOR MURDER

Santa Ana, Cal., Nov. 5.—A verdict of first-degree murder, without recommendation for clemency, was returned here Thursday against Philip Goodwin, a former priest of the American Catholic church, an association that rejects papal infallibility, for the murder of J. J. Patterson, a Los Angeles bond broker, last spring. Judge E. J. Marks will pronounce the death sentence next Tuesday.

The jury deliberated forty-seven minutes. Only one ballot was taken it was said, the remainder of the time being spent in discussing whether recommendation for life imprisonment should be made.

TAKES OVER BANK

(By Associated Press.) Harrisburg, Nov. 5.—William R. Smith has taken charge of the Italian Merchants' Bank of Philadelphia, the state department of banking announced today. The bank, a privately owned institution, was closed because of "frozen" assets such as low mortgage.

TRY TO SETTLE STRIKE

(By Associated Press.) London, Nov. 5.—Negotiations between the government and the miners for the settlement of the British coal strike which has been continued since last May have been resumed, trade union officials said this afternoon.

And That's That

—by—
John Ruth

For the benefit of those who say we never see fit to compliment anything we wish to say right here that we are wholeheartedly in favor of the Gettysburg College Woman's League. We greatly enjoyed the meeting last night and the ice cream was fine. Just what would the college be without the mothers of the students behind it? We hope no one will ever be able to find out.

Some of the co-eds were at the meeting last night. It seems as if one can never get away from these co-eds. There was a time when we liked the co-eds very much but "them times is gone forever." Girls are too sentimental and inconsistent. One finds it very difficult to work with them.

After they grow up it is a different story. If we want a task completed we will give it to some dogmatic woman with a dominating personality every time. As long as one can keep a woman from changing her mind one can count on the work being done in great style. Yet, one can never tell when they are apt to change their mind. So there you are.

The "Cannon Bawl" will be sold at the Dickinson game tomorrow. If the boys are anxious to make money why don't they sell hot dogs instead of the "Cannon Bawl"? No doubt there would be more money in selling hot dogs. Then too, we always enjoy a good hot dog.

A co-ed has protested our statement concerning the marked absence of the ladies at the religious meetings. As soon as we see more than one girl at any one meeting we will give it first space. The whole co-ed-situation makes us think of a little incident we once saw:—

Several little children were playing in the street. One little boy stood on the side and did not join in the fun and playing with the others. Finally he could stand the exclusion no longer and he went in to cry out his sorrow on his mother's knee.

"You say they don't want you to play with them?" asked the mother. "Well then, go out and make them want you."

As yet, we see little in some people that make them indispensable to the life of the college. And after all, three or four years is rather a short period in which to "make them want you."

We are getting tired of reading about "G-Burg." We would place "G-Burg" in the same class with "Xmas." If Christmas is not important enough to be spelt out in full then let's do away with Christmas. Such abbreviations are trite and always remind us of "Hah Hah Hah." To our way of thinking Gettysburg is a mighty fine institution and worthy of the space that a few extra letters require.

Every once and a while M. L. Mencken says something that is worth while. Recently he wrote, "Christianity is sick all over this pious land. Christians have poisoned it." Sometimes we are forced to agree with Mr. Mencken. It often seems that it is the truth. When we see some of the men that are going into the ministry our heart sinks and we decide it is about time for us to keep away from church. Why is it the church allows men who are unable to get a position in any other field of life to go into the folds of the church? Why doesn't the church have some standards besides a pious face and a dogmatic provincial education? Why doesn't the church get more Phi Beta Kappa men into its folds? In other words, why doesn't the ministry get the "cream" instead of the "dregs"?

No doubt that will get some of the brethren mad. That is just exactly what we want to do. Everybody seems to be too complacently happy and contented. We honestly believe the church is losing more ground than it is gaining. If so it is up to the youth of today to make the church of tomorrow what it should be. Gettysburg College is filling many Lutheran pulpits. Is Gettysburg College sending its best men into the pulpits? If not, why not? Somehow it seems to us that the church and religion in toto fail to have the grip on one that it should have if properly presented. After all, it's none of our business except we do feel sorry for our children should they be forced to attend church.

One national religious group recently reported at their convention that among their members there was hardly a "representative student." Is the same situation true here? All of which makes it a sincere pleasure to congratulate Herman Keiter on being elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

We didn't mean to get started on

"PIG WOMAN" IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Autopsy on Mrs. Mills Reveals That Tongue and Throat Were Torn Out.

(By Associated Press.) Somerville, N. J., Nov. 5.—The suddenly precarious health of the state's star witness and the opinion of a doctor based on autopsies that the murderers of Mrs. Eleanor Mills had torn her tongue out by the roots gave them the center of the stage today in the unfolding drama of the Hall-Mills murder mystery.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, raiser of pigs and former circus rider, who claims to have viewed the double slaying, was dangerously ill in a hospital with the strongest possible case fluctuating to her high temperature when the findings of Dr. Otto H. Schultze were announced.

Doctor Schultze, who performed autopsies four years ago and again recently on the bodies of Mrs. Mills and the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall, revealed in New York last night the gist of what his testimony on the stand would be today.

At a second autopsy four years ago Doctor Schultze discovered that the choir singer's throat had been slashed after she was killed. The bodies were exhumed recently for a third autopsy at which Doctor Schultze gave particular attention to her throat because of rumors that her tongue had been cut off.

He found, he said, that the choir singer's tongue and the larynx containing the vocal cords had been torn out by a hand thrust far down into the throat either at the time she was killed or shortly thereafter.

Mrs. Gibson collapsed on the first day of the trial. It was said that her temperature ranged from 102 to 104 degrees. Her condition is said to be serious with cancer.

NATIVE COUNTIAN DIES IN NEW YORK

John Randolph Kuhn, Born at East Berlin, Was Prominent Attorney of Brooklyn.

John Randolph Kuhn, a prominent lawyer of Brooklyn, N. Y., and a native of Adams county, died at his home in Brooklyn, Tuesday. He was in his eighty-third year. He was born in East Berlin on August 28, 1844, his mother being the late Jane R. McCabe and his father the late Col. Joseph J. Kuhn.

He was educated in the common schools and at Calvert College, near Westminster, Maryland, which conferred upon him the degree of A. M. When a young man Mr. Kuhn taught school for several years in Adams county.

In 1866 he moved to Brooklyn, New York, and was admitted to the bar in 1867, continuing in active practice up until the time of his death. He assisted in forming the Brooklyn Bar Association and served as its secretary for several years.

In 1872 he married Miss Henrietta Rabbinette, who died about twenty years ago. Of this union there were thirteen children, twelve of whom survive, namely: Misses Claire, Miriam, Eulalie and Evelyn, at home; Mrs. Augustine J. Tierney, Pikesville, Maryland; Mrs. Charles P. Sullivan, San Diego, California; Mrs. Joseph F. Maguire, Brooklyn; John J. and Walter R., both prominent corporation lawyers in New York City; Louis C., George E. and Leo B., Brooklyn.

For the past fifteen years of his life Mr. Kuhn was afflicted with blindness, but he permitted this in no way to affect his active interest in professional and industrial circles. Funeral on Saturday morning at Conewago Chapel with a requiem mass service at 9 o'clock. Interment in the plot of the Kuhn family in the Sacred Heart cemetery at Conewago.

SEVERAL KILLED IN 'QUAKE

(By Associated Press.) Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 5.—Several persons were killed and much damage was caused this morning when a severe earthquake occurred. The duration of the quake was 50 seconds and the shocks were general throughout the country. The national palace and the cathedral in Managua were badly damaged. Many houses were wrecked at Santiago.

3 KILLED IN WRECK

(By Associated Press.) Sunbury, Nov. 5.—Paul C. Bailey, of Lykens, engineer, and L. G. Sees, trainman of Sunbury were killed at Millersburg, Dauphin county, early today when a Lykens Valley coal train crashed into a freight train on the Pennsylvania railroad. Three other trainmen were injured.

the religious question. One always gets in trouble when commenting on religion and religious dogmas, if for no other reason than the TRUTH ALWAYS HURTS.

This column feels that Gettysburg should absolutely remain in the conference. We have talked it over with those who know and we think there can be no question as to its advisability.

MOTHER OF FIVE BURNS TO DEATH

(By Associated Press.) Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Five children who gleefully helped their mother rake up fallen leaves in their yard at Pennfield, yesterday, and watched as she set them on fire today mourned her loss.

A few minutes after Mrs. Kathleen Millone, wife of a prominent sculptor, had set a match to the pile of leaves, a sudden gust of wind blew the flames in her direction. In an instant her clothing was a mass of fire. She ran screaming from the yard and a man working nearby attempted to smother the flames with a sweater but she was so severely burned that she died five hours later.

CAVE-IN ROBS TOWN OF MEN

Only Two Remain After 52 Perished in Michigan Catastrophe; 160 Orphans.

Ishpeming, Mich., Nov. 5.—The little settlement of North Lake, which grew around the development of the Barnes-Hecker iron mine, eight miles from here, was robbed of nearly every man by the cave-in at the shaft Wednesday, which took fifty-one lives.

Today, as the difficult work of attempting recovery of the bodies proceeded, there were only two men residents there to help. The others lay either in a morgue or in the workings where they were caught by the collapse of swamp land and the consequent flooding of the mine.

The disaster left 160 orphans. The community school closed yesterday when only six of its thirty-two pupils came to classes.

In the homes widows sat comforting their children.

The listed number of men who perished was reduced to fifty-one yesterday afternoon by official announcement that Frank Heino, previously reported among the missing, had been kept from working with his regular shift by illness. Arvid Heino, his son, is among the dead in the mine. The father had stayed home, not reporting to mine officials, until they checked at residences yesterday.

Only seven bodies have been recovered so far. Fifty employees of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company perished, as did William Hill, county mine inspector, who was on a trip through the mine.

About forty men are working to recover the bodies. One crew is preparing to bail the wrecked shaft. Another is working in from the third level to reach the shaft from beneath.

Mine officials believe that men were working on all three levels of the mine, but that most of them were on the first level, 600 feet below the surface.

The shaft is thought to be a mass of wreckage from 200 feet below its mouth to the bottom.

Wilfred Wills, 23, the only man in the mine at the time of the cave-in to escape, told how he climbed the 800-foot shaft ladders from the second level in ten minutes while ooze dropped into the mine by the collapse of the swamp bottom licked higher and higher at his feet. His boots were coated with mud when he emerged. Three companions who started with him were caught either by rising mud or falling debris in the shaft.

"It's not true that you're going to play the cornet in the street, is it?" Tony turned at the abrupt question. Disliking funerals, post-mortems and long-drawn-out good-byes he had been the first man to hurry from the room and the restaurant. It was Sherwood who followed him into Shattsbury Avenue and tapped him sharply on the arm.

"It's not true that you're going to play a cornet in the street, is it?"

"Oh, hullo, Teddy," he sang out, flashing the well-known smile. "How goes it, old son?"

"That doesn't matter. I want an answer to my question."

"Of course it's true," said Tony. "And if I hadn't learned to play the good old cornet while I was hanging about the hospital in '17, I should now be signing on with a little gang of burglars who are very good friends of mine. As a single man, I should have enjoyed that sort of outdoor sport enormously, but y'see, Chrissie's been brought up on rather narrow lines and so—" He waved the thing away with a half-regretful eloquence.

An expression of horror spread over Sherwood's ill-assorted features and the ugly scar on his left cheek bone, an everlasting memento of Contamination, turned a dull red. As the man who had, as he considered, stolen Chrissie, he hated Tony in the selfpunishing manner of a religious fanatic who makes an all-day-long ecstasy of his detestation of the devil. As the officer under whom he had served for several years, he admired and respected him for his humanity and imagination, efficiency and courage to the extent of hero-worship. Regarding him at that moment, as he had had no difficulty in doing while on active service, not as Tony, the pre-war rotter, the loose fish and glib cadger of peace times, but as Wing Commander Stirling-Fortescue, the finest officer in the R. A. F., he was shocked and appalled at the idea of his falling from his dizzy height to the ignominy of a street musician.

"Look here," he said, trying to keep his place at Tony's side, as they dodged through the people who poured out of the theatre into Piccadilly Circus. "I can't stand it. There must be something else that you can do."

"What, for instance, with Army, Navy and Air Force all lined up for jobs?" Quaint old thing, Teddy. What, after all, did it matter to him?

"Can't you go to the Earl of Stirling and get him to wangle you something?"

Tony laughed. "My dear old man, my brother, like my father before him, is a most exemplary person. He wouldn't touch me with the end of a six-foot pole."

"Why? Doesn't he know your record in the R. A. F.?"

The question was not answered. Tony's attention was drawn away from Sherwood's nagging cross-examination by a sight that stopped his heart. Tilted against a wall like a sack of potatoes was an ex-soldier without his arms and legs. A greasy cap gaped hungrily at passers-by, and two arresting eyes in a young and well-cut face looked with bitter sarcasm for charity. Tony's silver coin, but better still his quick salute, won a smile of gratitude that must have made the pen of the recording angel tremble in her hand.

Sherwood's aim was bad. His coin hit the wall and rolled among the feet of hurrying people. A woman stopped it, picked it up, and having seen the actions of the two officers, dropped it in the cap, adding sixpence of her own. The incident came under the notice of others, one or two of whom, with a certain sheepishness, followed the example of the woman who had held them up by her sudden scramble. The rest, casting a callous glance at what had long become a familiar and even tiresome sight, passed on.

Tony cleared his throat. "Who puts him there and takes him home? A Chrissie, do you suppose?"

The dogged and persistent Sherwood stuck to Chrissie's husband like a leech. "All right, then," he said, jabbing Tony's arm again, to compel his wandering attention. "Just listen, will you? I've got a scheme, that'll take you off the streets."

"Good old Teddy! What's the brainy idea?" Remarkable this excellent little fellow's loyalty and friendship.

"I'll make a place for you in the advertising department of my head office and pay you five hundred a year."

"My God, Teddy!" he said, putting his arm round Sherwood's muscular shoulders in his winning way, "what the dickens can I say to that?"

"Nothing. Just take the job and carry on. That's all you're asked to do."

He didn't want to be fussed over by this man. Nor did he want to be touched, which made him shudder. In making this offer, he was not attempting to do something in a roundabout way for Chrissie, who was always in his thoughts—deeply, wholly and rather terribly loved. His one desire was to put his late chief into dignified work on a living wage as a tribute to his gallantry. That was all. And having done that, he could continue to hate with all his curious soul as he was damned well going to do.

All this was perfectly clear to Tony. His uncanny knowledge of human nature, greatly enhanced by his close association with so many men under the primeval influences of war, made it easy for him to see the workings of Teddy Sherwood's elemental mind. Being in uniform and not yet having fallen back into his pre-war carelessness, the self-respect that he had acquired offered a barrier against the acceptance of what was obviously a charitable act. If he had lost his arms and legs like that poor devil propped against the wall, he would, with Chrissie to keep, have been forced thankfully to live on Sherwood's coin. As it was his luck had held and he was sound in wind and limb. What might happen in the future to weaken his war-acquired morale he could tell. In his present mood he shied at the idea of taking Sherwood's money home to pay for Chrissie's bread. He would do that job himself and start the new life clean.

So he said, "It's foolish for me to attempt to thank you for what you want to do. But you know me. I could no more knuckle down to the penit-up routine of an office than a parson. Your manager would give me the order of the boot before the end of my first week. Besides, I'm signed up to the joker who runs the band and I'm joining up to-morrow. So there it is."

"You mean that?"

"Yes, old boy, I mean it, though I'm enormously grateful to you for your kindness."

"You prefer to blow a cursed cornet and rattle a box in the face of people who want to forget the war to honest work in a decent office?" Tony? He was not thinking of the tall, slight, graceful man in front of him as the son of an Earl when he shot out this shrill incredulous question, but as Wing Commander Stirling-Fortescue, whose deplorable career had been brought to an end by a war for which he had been born, who had been raised out of the gutter and put on his feet by the kind of work for which he had had the same vocation as writing is to some men, the Church, surgery, or discovering the South Pole to others; who couldn't have been so excellent in the air if he had been any good on earth.

"Oddly enough, I do," said Tony. "Thanks very much, all the same." "God Almighty," cried Sherwood, and after a pause during which he found it utterly impossible to find words suitable to express his disgust, irritation and grief, flung up his hands, turned on his heels and dived into the crowd headfirst.

III

Whereupon, eager to join up again with Chrissie, from whom, except for occasional week-ends, he had been separated during the period of the war, Tony turned his face towards—where? Home? That hardly seemed the right word for those two dingy little rooms that he had taken that morning in the shabbiest of the houses in Pantons Street, rooms which once had belonged to a young actor whose last part had been finely played in the forward sweep of the Allied armies and which were furnished with an odd assortment of bits and pieces resulting from his various engagements upon the London stage. They were, however, the best that Tony could afford, having saved no more than fifty pounds from his pay, and he was thankful to have found them unoccupied. How long he would be able to hold them on what he might earn as a performer on the cursed cornet was the new problem to be faced. The old optimism which had carried him through the daily adventure of pre-war times still bubbled in his veins, and the Maccabean spirit of waiting hopefully for something to turn up was more alive in him than ever. He was not worried about Chrissie. He never worried about Chrissie. He knew her for a sportswoman. He knew with what amazing courage and gorgeous cheerfulness she was able to accept whatever came her way. If she couldn't snow white, she would snow brown as she had always done. She had a genius for making the best of things, for showing no surprise at the inevitable. Hadn't she made their bed-sitting room in Brewer Street gleam with cleanliness—even beauty—while he had wallowed so eagerly for the war? Hadn't she given the desire to live to hundreds of her wounded, and been known as "Wendy" where-ever there was mud?

Christian Endeavor

The Weekly Lesson For the Christian Endeavor Societies of the County For the Coming Sunday.

The Christian Endeavor topic for Sunday, November 7, designated as World Peace Sunday, is "How Make War Against War?" in keeping with the celebration of Armistice Day, November 11. The Scripture lesson is Matthew 7:12; Isaiah 2:1-4.

HOW MAKE WAR AGAINST WAR? This is the topic for Armistice Sunday. Most people remember eight years ago at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month the Armistice was signed and the greatest war of all time came to an end. That was a great day, not only in America, but throughout the world. It is well to observe this day as it comes to us from year to year and try to study some of the lessons it brings to us.

The World War cost about one hundred thousand million dollars and took the lives of over ten million of the choicest young men of the world. Everyone thought this was price enough to pay and hoped for better things: we had hoped the day of misunderstanding was past, and peoples would recognize and regard each other as brothers. But as soon as the treaty was signed men began talking of "the next war."

We must put an end to war or the next war will put an end to civilization. The ammunition used by the entire artillery in the Civil War would have lasted General Pershing less than thirty minutes. The forces of destruction have been so perfected that the devastation and death caused by another war would be beyond the imagination of mankind to conceive. How foolish it is for nations to go to war! Men and nations misunderstand each other, kill each other and then think they have settled an issue. If nations sat down at first and reasoned things out and exercised love and kindness we would never need to go to war. We ought to make war unpopular. Our text books in the public schools extol war makers and fighters as heroes, our monuments and statues are almost all erected to generals and soldiers. Why not show that heroism in peace is nobler than heroism in war? That to save men is a higher virtue than to kill them?

The World Court, the League of Nations, the Church Peace Council and other organizations are trying to find ways by which nations need not go to war to settle disputes. They suggest that we mobilize for peace instead of war, that we have a Secretary of Peace to take the place of the Secretary of War.

The American Legion is backing the idea, that "in the event of a declaration of war the property equally with the persons' lives and liberties of all citizens shall be subject to conscription for the defense of the nation." If no profits could be made out of war, if prices would stay down, then the big interests would discourage rather than encourage war. If the soldier is to sacrifice his life for mere pittance, it seems hardly fair that those who stay at home should reap big profits. This idea of confiscation of all property more than any other plan will put an end to war.

RALPH G. ORNER.

Pimples gone!
ready to meet the world

THEY'RE GONE! Those unsightly, annoying pimples that were such an embarrassment to you. Absolutely disappeared! S. S. S., the powerful food cleanser and red, blood builder, did it!

Now you know what to do about such skin eruptions. Now you know how foolish it is to let pimples, blackheads, boils, blotches, eczema and such things remain to handicap you.

Now that you are free of such unsightly things, people will welcome you—like to see you and talk to you, instead of making excuses to keep you away.

When S. S. S. starts barging through your food, skin troubles fade away. Your whole system is improved—nerves strengthened—appetite turns—strength and power comes back into flabby muscles—you feel as yourself again. S. S. S. is sold by all druggists. Get larger bottle. It's more economical.

Marvelous new ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL that helped win air races now available for your car

IT'S the same oil which figured in so many winning records at the great Sesqui-Centennial National Air Races... where it was used because of its extraordinary heat-and-wear resisting qualities.

Now this remarkable oil, in "Medium," "Heavy," "Special Heavy" and "Extra Heavy," is available for your automobile engine. Atlantic dealers and service stations everywhere have it—together with chart showing which type your motor requires.

Don't fail to try this new Atlantic Motor Oil. It's different from any motor lubricant you have ever used. Toughened by a special Atlantic "tempering" process; and thoroughly freed from the quick-melting, waxy substances found in ordinary oils. (It is these low heat-resisting substances which cause motor oils to thin down rapidly, evaporate and change their character.)

You'll be amazed at the way this new Atlantic "wears"; how unchanged it is after hundreds and hundreds of miles of use; how little of it evaporates or is consumed; how much less oil you'll have to buy; how infrequently your crankcase will need draining; and how much longer your motor remains smooth-running and full-powered. Simply no other motor oil like it. Get a crankcase filling—today.

THE EVAPORATION TEST

Evaporation reduces the volume and changes the character of ordinary oil faster than anything else. Study these remarkable tests:

At 480° nine representative "medium" motor oils, under test, showed evaporation losses of 19% or greater

At 480° the new Atlantic Motor Oil (Medium), under identically the same test, showed an evaporation loss of only 3%

New records are being made every day; Mussolini's latest escape gives him four up on the long-famous cat with its nine lives.

In spite of the supposed lack of moisture in this country we continue to raise our customary crop of wild oats.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Local Autoists Sociability Run.—Eleven of the twenty-seven entrants in the sociability run of the Gettysburg Automobile Club braved a November drizzle this morning and started on the third event of the year conducted by the local motorists. The run was scheduled to get away at 9:15 but lowering skies delayed matters and the first car left more than an hour late, the remainder following quickly.

John D. Keith, the pacemaker, was the first to leave. He was followed by Emory Plank, second pace maker, and by Charles S. Duncan, Esq., official.

Those who "checked out" were first as follows, the driver being given first in each instance.

Stoddard-Dayton, John D. Keith, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Dalbey, Miss Fisher, Harry O. Himes.

Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Plank, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Plank.

Pullman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Duncan, Mrs. Charles H. Huber, Miss Katherine Duncan.

E. M. F., George F. Eberhart, David J. Forney, John Kimple, Howard Garvin.

Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ring, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Holtzworth, Miss Esther Ring.

Cadillac, Clarence B. Redding, Miss Bessie Redding, Miss Edna Redding, Simon Redding.

Liberty Brush, Miss Carrie Codori, William F. Codori, Jr.

Krit, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Markley, Maxwell, Dr. W. H. O'Neal, Joseph Bushman.

E. M. F., Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johns, Miss Mary Johns, Miss Ada Johns, Howard Johns.

Mitchell, John W. Brehm, Powers Pittenturf, Earl Culp, Clarence Bumbaugh, Frank Ramer.

Shot Through Both Legs.—While hunting on the farm of Harry Montfort, near town, Robert Oyler, the young son of J. Price Oyler, accidentally shot David Oyler, son of Harry Oyler, the bullet, a 22 long, passing through both legs. Robert had been carrying the gun under his arm when it discharged accidentally. His companion was carried home and is now resting easily. It is not believed that any serious consequences will follow.

D. A. R. Officers.—At a meeting of the Gettysburg Chapter Daughters of American Revolution Saturday, the following officers were elected to serve for the year: Regent, Mrs. Walter H. O'Neal; vice regent, Mrs. William Anthony Granville; treasurer, Mrs. J. Lawrence Butt; registrar, Miss Margaret Barr; historian, Mrs. Henry Anstadt; chaplain, Miss Annie Majors; secretary, appointed by the regent, Mrs. Harry Hartman.

Bigham—Tressler.—Rev. F. E. Taylor married at the Presbyterian manse on September 28 James H. Bigham and Catherine Tressler, both of this county.

Arbogast—Storrick.—Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Bessie Storrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Storrick, of near town, and J. C. Arbogast, of Pottsville. The wedding took place in Philadelphia.

Will Not Weary County Teachers.—Adams county teachers who attend the sessions of the annual institute to be held in Brua Chapel, November 20-24, will not be fatigued by being compelled to listen to lectures from 9 o'clock until noon, and from half past 1 until approximately 4 o'clock, as in other years, Superintendent Roth having decided to shorten the sessions, believing that the teachers will gain more in the end.

This year there will be three lectures on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings, the sessions opening at nine o'clock. At all other sessions, there will be only two, the morning sessions opening Thursday and Friday at 9:30, the afternoon sessions Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 2 o'clock.

Improvements.—P. W. Stallsmith has greatly improved his newsstand by the installation of handsome new show cases, repapering and the laying of linoleum. The place presents a most attractive appearance.

Personal Notes.—Mrs. Charles F. Sanders entertained at her home on Springs avenue this afternoon, A. H. Butt and daughter, Miss Burnetta Butt, are visiting in Harrisburg for several days.

Starners.—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dittenhafer are home from York for some time.

Harry Sterner attended Carlisle market on Tuesday.

Those who spent Sunday with Lawrence Weidner and family were Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Deatrack, Mrs. Priscilla Starners and grandson, James Starners, William Weidner and Furl Gollaway.

Rumor has it that the leading political parties (two we believe) are broke. If true, let the public beware. A busted political party is a menace.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

FATE

How do things happen? Well, who can explain
The freight that is carried in destiny's train?
One man turns a corner, perhaps by mistake,
Is felled by a signboard which chances to break,
And when he recovers, for better or worse,
He walks to the altar and marries his nurse.

Take Miss Annabelle Brown for a curious case,
Her future looked bleak and her past commonplace,
"All the days are the same," she would frequently sigh,
"Nothing happens to me, nothing will till I die."

Then one day in a car—ladylike if you please,—
By an atom of dust she was prompted to sneeze.

'Twas a cute little "Atchoo!" and soft was the sound,
But the gentleman sitting in front turned around;
Not, of course, to be rude, but just curious to see
Who that delicate feminine sneezer could be;

And Miss Annabelle Brown saw a school-boy she'd known
In the days of her youth which so swiftly had flown.

She recognized him, and he recognized her,
And this partly explains how romances occur,
For they caught up the friendship they fancied was lost
And were married that fall with the coming of frost.

So, but for that sneeze on her way into town,
Mrs. Annabelle Black might today be Miss Brown.

Snappy Paragraphs

The Rye Straw Storekeeper, who has been puzzled for some time as to how to keep down the heavy cost of stove pipe, has decided he can do so by moving the stove closer to the wall.

Jefferson Potlocks and family have not moved in a long while, and a good many of the neighbors had concluded that they had decided to settle down forever; but, this week, Jeff has been sitting on the front porch shuffling his feet with a far-away look on his face.

Luke Mathews has lost his pipe and he would like for someone to please tell him where they saw him smoking it the last time.

IDA E. LOCHBAUM

Little Jack Rabbit

"Something dreadful is going to happen," all of a sudden cried Lady Love, hopping in from the kitchen. "Some one is tapping on the roof of the little back porch."

"Who do you suppose it can be?" asked Cousin Cottontail.

"I'm sure I don't know," answered Uncle Lucky.

"Maybe it's Mrs. Wild Cat," whispered the five little Cottontails.

"Might be Hungry Hawk," suggested the Big Brown Bear.

"Let me in-vesti-gate," which means to find out,—said the Yellow Dog Tramp, as he tiptoed out on the little back porch. Every one sat perfectly quiet and waited, except the Big Brown Bear; he followed on his tip-toes with a big stick in his right paw.

There wasn't a sound for maybe three minutes, when, all of a sudden, there came a loud scratching and sliding noise on the shingle roof, and the next minute a ker-plunk! like something falling on the ground.

"What, what's the matter?" gasped frightened Lady Love, hiding her bunny boy under her apron.

"Don't be alarmed," cried a voice, and there stood old Squirrel Nutcracker in his gray fur suit.

"Good evening, friends," he went on, with a twinkle in his eye. "I may have surprised you, but, to explain, when I jumped from the tree to your roof, I had no idea that shingles are so slippery. I just couldn't hold my footing."

"You're as welcome as the flowers in May," cried Uncle Lucky. "Sit down and listen to my small nephew read aloud from his Fairy Pixie Book."

Then turning over a page or two, the little rabbit commenced:

"It was some time before the Pixies again set out on a frolic. In fact, it was two days before they dared return to the wood for the haywagon. Then, besides, there was much to do on the farm, and when evening came they were a tired lot of little folk."

But one night, after supper was over, Pixie Pete made some wonderful Jack-o'-lanterns out of big yellow pumpkins, and telling the Pixies to follow him, marched down the road to the village.

It was Halloween night, and in some of the houses parties of little boys and girls were being held, and at the town hall a dance for the grown-ups.

"Ha, ha!" laughed Pixie Pete, "we'll have some fun when all the people leave for home. They'll be dreadfully frightened when these lighted pumpkin heads suddenly jump out from behind trees! Hee, hee!" and he arranged his little Pixie friends all along the dark street, some under bushes, some behind fences, and others among the trees.

Pixie Pup had come along, but like a well-behaved Pixie dog, kept quiet, only wagging his tail at times at a pumpkin head, when the candle light twinkling through the eye-holes in the yellow shell winked at him.

"S-s-sh!" cautioned Pixie Pete, as the dance hall door swung open and old Mr. Jones walked out into the darkness. "What do you suppose that disagreeable fellow finds to amuse himself at a dance?"

"Maybe his daughter Mary is there," whispered Pixie Polly. "She isn't like him, you know. She's a sweet girl."

"Well, we'll give him a scare," said Pixie Phil, and quick as a wink, he and Pixie Paul hid behind a bush, while on the opposite side of the walk Pixie Pete jumped behind a tree."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WAITING

WHAT a waiting life this is anyway! We do what we find to do, or what we are forced to do, or what somebody else says we can do, or ought to do. And then we wait—for our pay, for appreciation, for the future perhaps to confirm our judgment of selection.

And we wait and wait for the confirmation of our ideals, for the one friend to appear, and for the one love.

Waiting until the day is over and the soothing breath of dusk appears, waiting for bed-time when the touch of a gentle God comforts and alleviates our hurts in sleep.

Waiting for morning, and perhaps the day of days, when at least one of these dreams of ours may come true, stepping softly out of the long night, through the movement of the trees, mingling with the sunbeams, as they dance their early prayers upon the dew of the vines peeping into where our eyes again look at life in the face.

How often have you looked from your window where you live or work and see the clouds gather. They rush here and there, as though looking for something lacking before they get right down to the task they set out to do. Then, all of a sudden, the sky becomes a dark velvet mass, like a blanket. The wind whistles. The rain beats in torrents to the earth. Glimmering fire flashes from this phenomenon of the heavens. Roars and rumbles and charges of noise, like a huge war in action, fascinate, perhaps—but you wait, wait for the clearing and the fresh air that has been washed so clean by the storm. You wait for sunshine. For peace and beauty.

The show girl, outside the manager's office, sits and waits—and waits. As she waits she dreams. No one ever knows the dreams she dreams out there, for their substance is her heart.

It takes great courage to wait, to go on and on over barren days. But you can do this if your dream is big enough, if your desires are warmed by an understanding heart.

Life will open up for anyone, like the rose, if the ground about it is kept rich enough.

Harrisburg Woman Declares
She Feels Like a Different Person Now Since Taking Juice.

"I can certainly testify to the merits of Dillingham's Plant Juice, for this medicine not only rid me of a bad case of indigestion but did me so much actual good that I now feel like a different person entirely," declared Mrs. E. W. Weaver, 2222 Logan St., Harrisburg, Pa.

"Here about a year ago," continued Mrs. Weaver, "I was in a general run-down condition and suffered from nervousness. My appetite was very poor at times the very sight of food would fill me up."

"Sometimes when I would attempt to eat, the gas would make me feel bloated and miserable and I suffered greatly from heartburn. My nerves were on edge nearly all the time and I'd be so restless I could get hardly any sleep. Finally I got so worn out and weak that my housework was just a drag.

"Well, one of my neighbors advised me to try Plant Juice, and by the time I'd finished my second bottle I could notice a difference in the way I felt and when I had taken the eighth bottle the neighbors all noticed the difference in the way I looked. Plant Juice simply put me back on my feet and made life worth living for me."

"I have a fine appetite now and can eat anything I want as my digestion is perfect. My nerves are steady again, I get sound restful sleep and my housework is a pleasure, as I'm actually feeling stronger than I have in over ten years. I certainly do feel thankful to Plant Juice for restoring my health and to my neighbor for telling me about it."

ATTRACTED BY BOOKLET
Read of Other Women Who Found Health
Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 35 Central Ave., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at some time in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."
There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.
The Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass., will gladly furnish other women with these names upon request.

RUB PAIN OUT OF RHEUMATIC JOINTS
For 65 years, millions have rubbed soothing, penetrating St. Jacobs Oil right on the tender spot, and by the time they say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress. St. Jacobs Oil is a harmless rheumatism and pain liniment which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache and neuralgia. 6 cent bottle guaranteed by all druggists.—adv.

PUSHED OUT OF THE RACE
When Chas. McAllister of Kearney, N. J., reached the point where he had to drag his tired, aching, weary body from a well-nigh senseless bed, he did a wise thing—bought a bottle of Foley's Pills, and then "After taking Foley's Pills for a time, I became all right and my pain and weakness is all gone." Foley's Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, are a reliable, valuable medicine guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. People's Drug Store, C. Wm. Beales, Prop.—adv.

RUB PAIN OUT OF RHEUMATIC JOINTS
For 65 years, millions have rubbed soothing, penetrating St. Jacobs Oil right on the tender spot, and by the time they say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress. St. Jacobs Oil is a harmless rheumatism and pain liniment which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache and neuralgia. 6 cent bottle guaranteed by all druggists.—adv.

PUSHED OUT OF THE RACE
When Chas. McAllister of Kearney, N. J., reached the point where he had to drag his tired, aching, weary body from a well-nigh senseless bed, he did a wise thing—bought a bottle of Foley's Pills, and then "After taking Foley's Pills for a time, I became all right and my pain and weakness is all gone." Foley's Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, are a reliable, valuable medicine guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. People's Drug Store, C. Wm. Beales, Prop.—adv.

TONIGHT

A Real Double Feature Program

Paramount's answer to the world's cry for new faces on the screen. You'll love them all, but some will capture your heart. The fastest moving story BRYON MORGAN ever wrote, and he wrote all of Wally Reid's racing stories.

Special Added
Another Paramount Masterpiece
"GRASS"

The most marvelous romance of all—the romance of life! "It is one of the great pictures. It lifts the screen to new heights."—Alfred E. Smith, Governor of New York. A tremendous picturization of a Forgotten People. "Grass." Story by an angry God. From a scenario suggested by Necessity, directed by Fate and staged by Destiny in a land blasted by the crimson thumbprint of Disaster.
